Simba's Excursions

This debut novella, written and published by eleven-year-old Ramana when he was just six, tells the story of a young boy named Ramana and his lion companion, Simba. Together, they travel across new lands and experience exciting adventures. This novella is a testament to the unfettered imagination of children and is one of our bestsellers.

The Blue Fairy

This debut short story collection from Ramana, a six-year-old at the time of publication, offers unique perspectives on themes like love, death, family, and war. These wildly imaginative stories help us understand what these 'adult' phenomena mean to children, inspiring us with a fresh take on these universal themes.

My Name is Venil

This is the debut novel by thirteen-year-old Ramani. It is a novel that retains the innocence of childhood.

Who can stitch?

This collection features five stories by thirteen-year-old Ramani, showcasing the innocence and imagination characteristic of childhood.

Aadhan's Doll

The recipient of the prestigious Sahithya Akademi Bala Purashkar award, this beloved children's tale chronicles the evolution of human civilization. It weaves historical facts into an enchanting fable, making history enjoyable and accessible for young readers. This engaging story not only enlightens children about the past but has also become one of our bestsellers.

Butterfly Tales

This collection of short stories for children offers a realistic view of the world, moving away from the typical moralistic tales often shared with youngsters.

The Monkey and the Bears

This collection features a variety of stories, all centred around animals as the main characters.

Tiger's teeth and Fox's horns

This is another collection of Abhinaya's tales with an ensemble cast of animals.
